PREFACE.

THE compilation of a College Register was first mooted in the columns of the "Cheltenham College Magazine" in 1870, and letters had since, at occasional periods, appeared on the subject in that publication. Nothing, however, was done until the summer of 1883, when the writer of these lines and Captain (now Lieut.-Colonel) J. C. Dalton, R.A., brought the matter again forward in "The Cheltonian." It was then decided to publish the Register in preliminary parts, merely giving the names of the boys who had entered and the dates of their births, together with the names and addresses of their fathers. Part I. accordingly appeared in 1883; and Part IV., which completed the entries to the end of 1885, came out in 1886. These formed the basis of the Register now issued. Circulars were also sent to all Old Cheltonians whose addresses were known, asking them to fill up the necessary particulars with regard to themselves. A great many of these, unfortunately, have never been returned by their recipients, although in the majority of instances they have had two and sometimes more applications made to them. The addresses of many others it has been found impossible to obtain, hence the lack of information respecting their careers. The information stated after each boy's name is put down, as far as possible, in the following order:—Father's name and address, Class and Department on entering College, and the same on leaving, name of Boarding House, date of leaving, scholastic and athletic honours attained at the College, and subsequent career when known. The details thus given are the result of much labour and research. Great difficulty was experienced in finding out anything about Old Cheltonians who had left College many years ago, and more especially of those who were dead. Another cause, which did not minimise the difficulty, was the fact of many Old Cheltonians having made additions to their names, or else changed their surnames altogether, making identification not easy.

The old method of naming the classes at Cheltenham would probably prove totally unintelligible to those unconnected with the College, and for their benefit it may be perhaps as well here to explain that formerly Classes were numbered from 1 downwards, and these again were divided into A and B, some into C and D, others into P (Principal's side) and V.P. (Vice-Principal's side). 1^A was the highest class in each Department. Besides these, certain others were called Addiscombe, Woolwich, Civil, Direct, Line, Sandhurst, Naval, Special, Preparatory, Latin, and India Civil. In September, 1889, all this was abolished, and the plan substituted was that which was in force at all the great Public Schools; the word Form took the place of Class, and the Sixth Form then became the highest, the First Form the lowest.

To make a book of this nature absolutely correct is of course an impossible task, but it is hoped that this Register may nevertheless prove of great interest not only to all Cheltonians, but also to those who have been in any way officially connected with the College; and for any errors that occur the writer craves their indulgence, and would be glad to have them pointed out, so that they may be put right in the event of another edition of the Register being published at some future period.

The history of the College here given was very kindly undertaken by the late Rev. H. E. Bayly, whose intimate connection with Cheltenham, both as a boy and Master, for the long period of forty-two years—1842-84—entitled him to speak with authority on the subject. The description of the buildings is from the able hand of Mr. H. A. Prothero, the well-known architect at Cheltenham, himself an Old Cheltonian, and who received much valuable assistance from Mr. Rainger, builder to the College. The permanent photographic prints are from negatives supplied by Mr. White, of Weston Villa, Cheltenham, to whose care and trouble are due the very successful results given. In conclusion, especial thanks are due to Mr. Francis J. Cade, without whose aid—as also that of the Rev. William Vassall—during the preliminary stages it would have been well-nigh impossible to have carried the work out at all; to Mr. Basil H. Soulsby, who spared himself no trouble in collecting information, and whose assistance has been invaluable; to Sir Ralph W. Thompson, K.C.B., Permanent Under Secretary for War, for having permitted the records at the War Office to be utilized for all details respecting Old Cheltonians in the Army, much of which it would otherwise have not been possible to obtain; and to Mr. Hughes, of the Secretary's Office, on whom devolved the great labour of writing up the original Register books from the manuscript documents.

The Mission district, which will form a separate parish, will contain 5,000 people, all of the poorest sort. It is hoped that all Old Cheltonians will interest themselves in the College Mission, and help in various ways, and so the Mission may be another bond of brotherhood between past and present Members of the School. The cost of maintaining the Mission, including the stipend of the Missioner, will be not less than £400 a year.
 Subscriptions are invited from all Old Cheltonians, and from all who are interested in the College, and will be gratefully received by the Treasurer, the Rev. J. A. Owen, M.A., 22 Suffolk Square, Cheltenham.

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE.

FOUNDED in the summer of A.D. 1841, Cheltenham College lacks yet barely two years of the celebration of its jubilee. The forty-eight years of its existence have been perhaps the most important in the progress of education which the annals of England have to record. A new era in literature, and new requirements in extended commerce, new demands in almost every branch of knowledge, began to bring about what may be termed rather a revolution than a reformation in the domain of education. Science, technically so called, put in her claims for consideration, and modern languages became a necessity of the times, and mathematical training, which had hitherto taken a subordinate position in the curriculum of the older schools, forced its way to the front. Competitive examinations throughout all departments, in accordance with national wants, struck a death-blow to nepotism, nominations, and old hereditary claims to lucrative posts. A more practical age required a sterner test, and insisted on some better guarantee to ensure getting the right man for the right place.

The merit of having been the first founders of the College is universally assigned to Mr. G. S. Harcourt and Captain J. S. Iredell;¹ but little did they and the other gentlemen who met together in the winter of 1840 foresee what a young giant they were destined to produce. The original Board of Directors consisted of the aforesaid, with the Revs. F. Close, J. Brown, &c., and Captain R. Litchfield, R.A.,

the latter of whom acted as Honorary Secretary. Lord Sherborne was President of the Board, and these elected as their first Principal the Rev. Alfred Phillips, D.D. No special buildings then existed for the reception of pupils, who met for the first time on Thursday, 29th July, 1841, in the centre houses of Bays Hill Terrace. Small as the numbers then were (about one hundred), the accommodation, especially that of the playground, was very insufficient for school purposes; and all concerned welcomed the opening of the new buildings in the summer of 1843. They, too, were small compared with the existing structure; and perhaps it were well here to note the dates at which the several additions have been made. The playground was enlarged first in the year 1848, and subsequently in 1855. The large room of the Military Department (the "Big Modern"), was erected upon the foundation of the old open gymnasium and fives-courts in 1850; the Chapel was commenced in 1856; the Gymnasium and Racquet Courts in 1864; the Workshops (a very valuable addition) in 1875. Other class-rooms were built from time to time, also a large apartment devoted to Chemistry and Science, and an excellent Museum, which contains many valuable specimens. Nor must we pass over the erection of a magnificent swimming and other baths, in an adjacent field purchased by the Council for the purpose in 1880.

The exact reason for the retirement of Dr. Phillips we do not know. He was an excellent teacher of the subjects which he took in hand, especially of Hebrew, in which he was proficient. His successor was the Rev. William Dobson, M.A., late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge,—a name now widely known and appreciated, but then new to scholastic fame outside the University. The reputation of the new Head, and that of the establishment over which he so ably presided, grew pari passu, for the first time the "young school" came forward as a successful competitor for the highest honours, and the coveted title of "Balliol Scholar" came to be frequently inscribed upon the College walls. If sufficient talent and application were forthcoming Mr. Dobson was the man to lead his men to triumph and to victory. Who can forget his calm and dignified courtesy and his unobtrusive management of that portion (viz. the educational) which was immediately under his control; while the organization was such that scarcely anything could be supplemented or superseded. This went on with a continued tide of success until, in 1859, his retirement left the College to deplore his loss. In the meanwhile, ever since 1844, a constantly increasing strength was manifesting itself in the sister—for it must not be called rival—Department, the Military and Civil. As many a sturdy tree spreads into two equally large and important branches, each with its own life and vigour united by the parent stem, so did the School. Instead of being a mere class or two—a mere appendage to the Classical—the Military and Civil sprang into importance with the greatest rapidity, and its numbers soon equalled and eventually surpassed those of the older Department. It may almost be said to have been the creation of one man—the Rev. Thomas Allen Southwood. The more practical side of modern education invited the attention of many who felt that the curriculum of the older Public Schools was insufficient for the existing requirements, and those Schools have since recognized the necessity of following the example set by their younger competitor.

Before quitting the period of Mr. Dobson's career, we should state that, owing to the rapid development and largely increasing numbers of the College, he gained permission from the Directors to appoint a Vice-Principal, as his own assistant, in 1853, and his choice fell on the Rev. H. A. Holden, Senior Classic, and Fellow and

[illegible]

Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge, a gentleman of great attainments and of widespread reputation. To him, in 1858, succeeded the Rev. G. Butler, late Fellow of Exeter College, Oxford, and now Canon of Winchester. Upon his retirement in 1865, the title of Vice-Principal was abolished, or rather was merged in that of Head Master of the Military and Civil Department, and the Principal's Assistant was styled Senior Assistant Classical Master. This post was held successively by the Rev. Dr. Bigg, Mr. Nutt, and Mr. Leighton. This last was succeeded by the Rev. J. A. Owen, who still gives his valuable services to the College. His successes, especially in the Indian Civil Service Examinations, have left a decided mark upon the School.

It is now time to consider what has been the general government of the School as a whole, up to the date of 1859. It may be divided into three headings—the intellectual, the moral, and the religious. The first of these was left entirely in the hands of the Principal. It was for him to elect and dismiss masters, and to arrange all matters connected with the teaching of the pupils. The moral government was entrusted to a committee of Directors, who were styled “The Discipline Committee.” They had to deal with any offences committed by boys outside the College walls. They too, had the appointment of masters to the Boarding-houses, together with the regulation and control of these establishments. The religious training was entrusted to two Theological Tutors, who were appointed by the Directors, and were not dismissible by the Principal. This imperium in imperio can hardly be said to have worked very well. No Theological Tutors can ever obtain the high influence over the inner lives of boys which is possessed by the Head Master of a School. The government by the Discipline Committee was certainly not a success. The only person among them who showed any real administrative power, was the Rev. Francis Close, who was a most able man of business. He had a marvellous knack of managing a large assembly, and by some little incisive remark or well-timed saying, could turn the audience in his favour. At a meeting of proprietors to consider the question of raising the boarding fees, which were then ridiculously low, a certain Colonel, who was much averse to the increase, and was very wrath with the Rev. Chairman, got up and said:—“Gentlemen, I propose that the name of Mr. Close be expunged from the Directorate.” “You will require rather a large sponge to do that, Colonel,” was the quiet rejoinder; a burst of laughter followed, and the dissenting voice was heard no more. Without Mr. Close the Committee was a mere nonentity. It is only fair to say that they were quite willing to delegate their powers to the Principal, who declined to accept the responsibility. To sneer at their unremunerated service would be most unfair. Doubtless they performed a task, which was more or less necessary during the School's infancy, in the absence of other authority; but a full-grown and well organized institution can afford to dispense with laws which may be necessary to guide the child or the savage over the first steps of self-restraint. A few more remarks may close what we may term the first epoch of the School's history, ending with the retirement of Mr. Dobson in 1859. The public lists give the names of the senior masters on either side of the College. Mr. Dobson's successor had to undertake the task of superintending the Boarding-houses, and all the external management of the School, in short, the duties of the late Discipline Committee, which now ceased to exist. The choice of the Directors fell upon the Rev. Henry Highton, M.A., late Fellow of Queen's College, Oxford—a favourite pupil of Dr. Arnold's—and for a long time a House Master at Rugby, with an array of testimonials of the highest order. What more eligible candidate could have presented himself to the electors? Having many more calls upon his time than his predecessor, Mr. Highton appointed the Rev. T. A. Marshall, previously Vice-Master of the Military and Civil Department, as his Composition Master, and consigned to him much of the teaching of his first class. The step was an unfortunate one, and undoubtedly much weakened his influence. But the time was come when the School had outgrown its boyhood, and was yearning to cast off the trammels of a local Directorate. In the throes of a near revolution, history shows us how many men are sucked into the vortex who might have well held their own in quiet times. It is needless to dwell longer on the subject. Mr. Highton's reign was short and eventful, like that of Galba; and perhaps the Roman historian's summary of character might not be here wholly inapplicable. The year 1862 saw a new state of things. A new era dawned upon the School. The proprietors had agreed to entirely remodel the constitution. In place of the old local Directors the government was centred in a Council, for the most part non resident. This was divided into two parts, (a) Life Members, not necessarily shareholders, comprising some of the best-known men of the day; (b) Triennial Members, elected by the proprietors out of their own body. These retired by rotation. The first President was Lord Redesdale, Chairman to the Committee of the House of Lords, and he held the office until his death. The vacant post of Principal was offered to and accepted by the Rev. Alfred Barry, D.D., at that time Head Master of Leeds Grammar School, recently Bishop of Sydney. The powers as well as the duties of the office were considerably enlarged under the new system. The first thing upon which Dr. Barry insisted was that he alone should be responsible for the religious teaching of the College, as well as sole controller of the services in the Chapel. This of course trenched considerably upon the position previously occupied by the Theological Tutors, and it was plain that the abolition of this special office was not far off. It was patent to all that a master-mind was present, and that a new power was at work. The inadequacy of the then existing boarding-house arrangements suggested itself to Dr. Barry, who felt that accommodation more suited to the times was necessary if Cheltenham College was to hold its own against its rivals. A Company was formed by which four new large houses were built, and were occupied by the Revs. H. E. Bayly, W. Boyce, J. Graves, and T. M. Whittard. Hazelwell was erected by Mr. Green, while other masters enlarged their houses in accordance with the requisite demands. Boyne House, now the residence of the Head Master of the Modern Department, occupies a most conspicuous position on the north side of the play-ground. In the year 1865, Dr. Barry persuaded the Council to form a separate Junior Department under a separate Head, and excellent rooms were erected on the south side of the main buildings, one of which serves as a Library. In selecting the Rev. T. Middlemore Whittard for the post of Head Master, the Principal found one who was not only an excellent scholar, but a first-rate organizer and disciplinarian. Mr. Whittard's power also of extracting work from small boys was quite remarkable, as can be testified by all those who were ever in the class under his immediate teaching. The post is now held by the Rev. C. E. Lefroy Austin, who proves himself in all respects a most able successor.

After the comparatively short rule of six years, the Council of King's College, London, offered to Dr. Barry the post of Principal of that institution. To the regret of all at Cheltenham, it was accepted. Dr. Barry had done so much in elevating the status and general condition of the School, that his loss was sure to be deeply felt. He had introduced the prefect system, and won the confidence of the elder and younger boys alike. He removed several restrictions which were vexatious and galling without having any real efficacy. He had infused a new spirit into the Chapel Services, and many who are now grown up men will remember his influence in preparing for confirmation, and perhaps date from that their first impressions of the higher life.

The Council were fortunate in appointing for his successor one who has ever shown himself in every position most capable of holding the reins of government, viz., the Rev. Thomas William Jex-Blake, D.D., subsequently Head Master of Rugby. Long experience in one of the leading Public Schools in England, and a training under such a Head Master as the present Bishop of London (Dr. Temple), whom he eventually succeeded, had ripened his natural administrative abilities into a first-rate condition of efficiency. Boys appreciated his scholarship, and Masters his moral and mental vigour. His sermons in the College Chapel were always distinguished by good sense adorned by culture, while his command and power of epigram was almost unique. When in the year 1874, Rugby claimed her son as her future ruler, the Council appointed as Principal the Rev. Herbert Snow, then a Master at Eton, who has subsequently taken the name of Kynaston. Hardly could a more distinguished scholar have been selected, while his fame as having rowed in 1856, and stroke in 1857, in the Cambridge Eight, marks him as an athlete of no mean order. It is beyond the scope of this treatise to deal with quite recent times, it is enough to say that Dr. Kynaston did much for the School in many respects. He had greatly improved its discipline by making the day-boys more immediately amenable to the laws which are intended for the good of the whole community. His musical talents also were put to good purpose in greatly improving the Chapel services.

Dr. Kynaston resigned his office at Christmas, 1888, after a longer tenure than any of his predecessors, with the exception of Mr. Dobson; and his successor is the Rev. Herbert Armitage James, B.D., late Dean of St. Asaph, and formerly well known as a most successful Head Master of Rossall School.

The year 1879 saw the retirement of the Rev. T. A. Southwood from the post which he had so long and so admirably filled. He had perhaps over-estimated his physical strength, and fought too long against the weakness of declining years; for he was not a man to flinch from any of the duties which his office required, and many a time have his friends regretted to see him face the cold and damp of wintry mornings, with which he was obviously unfit to cope. A few years of repose, marred by ill-health, and it is to be feared by frequent suffering, was all the span allowed him ere he passed away in 1885. If a blameless life before men, if a career devoted to the service of the School which he had so much benefited, and to the boys whom he so loved, if an undeviating and conscientious discharge of duty be acceptable before God, then may Mr. Southwood have calmly turned himself to his rest. When he first joined the College he was comparatively a young man, and it is not too much to say that he became at once its leading spirit. He was the first organizer of its cricket, the first promoter of athletic sports, which, small in their beginnings have now become so important an element, not only in all Public Schools, but in the life and training of English youth. None of the great improvements which the College has seen were undertaken without his advice and co-operation. The plans of the new Boarding-houses, the Gymnasium, the Workshops, the Baths, etc., were all submitted to his judgment, and directed by his practical good sense.

But we may pass over these, and go on to the great intellectual benefits which he conferred on the School. He was the best trainer of his day in the line of military education, and above all, as a trainer—not a crammer—he aimed at what was permanent, not evanescent. So he gained the confidence of parents, boys, and masters, who served with him rather than under him, such was the courtesy which he showed to all with whom he came in contact. His picture adorns the “Big Modern,” as that of Mr. Dobson does the “Big Classical.” These are their physical features; as to a mental memorial, of both it may alike be said, Si monumentum requiris, circumspice.

Mr. Southwood's successor, Mr. E. A. A. Spencer, came from Wellington College, and was therefore well conversant with the details of military education. Under him the list of Woolwich successes was fully kept up, in spite of an increasing competition which is ever becoming more severe. Mr. Spencer resigned his charge at the close of the Easter term of 1888, and the choice of Head Master of the Military and Civil Department fell upon Mr. J. Brook-Smith, who for the long period of thirty-eight years had been a Master of the College, and since 1884 Vice-Master of the Modern. He, however, was destined never to preside over the office to which he was called; for, to the great grief of all, within a few weeks of his appointment the hand of death was upon him, and he passed peacefully away to his rest. In him the College lost one who had ever shown himself most liberal in taking the lead in all measures for the furtherance of its welfare, and to mark their appreciation of his labours, the former members of his Boarding-house subscribed for the full-length portrait of himself which now hangs in the “Little Modern,” and which was painted by one who was also in his house—Mr. C. N. Kennedy.

The successor to Mr. Brook-Smith as Head Master of the Modern is Mr. W. M. Baker, who has previously occupied a similar position at Rossall School; and it is with a feeling of confidence that under his administration the Department will continue to assert the position it has held in bygone years.

To enumerate here all the scholastic successes of Cheltenham boys, would take up too much space, and moreover be needless, as they will be found duly recorded further on, but as a summary of them may be interesting, they are herewith given. Taking first the Universities, and reckoning only such honours as can be gained on leaving school, the number of open scholarships and exhibitions gained since the foundation of the College to the end of 1888, has been 185, and is made up as follows:—

At Oxford, 107: Balliol, 17; Brasenose, 7; Christ Church, 7; Corpus Christi, 6; Exeter, 7; Jesus, 1; Keble, 2; Lincoln, 5; Magdalen, 5; Magdalen Hall, 1; Merton, 9; New, 2; Oriel, 3; Pembroke, 10; Queen's, 2; St. John's, 1; Trinity, 10; University, 5; Wadham, 5; Worcester, 2.

At Cambridge, 72: Caius, 7; Christ's, 3; Clare, 5; Corpus Christi, 2; Emmanuel, 3; Jesus, 6; King's, 1; Pembroke, 3; St. Catherine's, 3; St. John's, 10; St. Peter's, 1; Trinity, 22; Trinity Hall, 6.

At Dublin, 5; and at Durham, 1.

Besides the above, Cheltonians while in residence at the Universities, have carried off the following scholarships and prizes open to the whole University:—At Oxford: Four Hertford Scholarships (1853, 1856, 1877, 1881); Four Ireland Scholarships (1854, 1868, 1877, 1883); Three Craven Scholarships (1857, 1884, 1887); One Vinerian Law Scholarship (1862); One Boden Sanskrit Scholarship (1883); One Derby Scholarship (1886); Two Denyer and Johnson Scholarships (1873, 1877); One Senior Mathematical Scholarship (1865); Four Gaisford Greek Verse Prizes (1858, 1862, 1865, 1885); Four Latin Essay (1856, 1858, 1860, 1889); Two Latin Verse (1862, 1874); One Newdigate Prize Poem (1861); One English Essay (1875); One English Sacred Poem (1869); One Ellerton Theological Essay (1877); and Four Hall and Hall-Houghton Prizes (1871, 1872, 1875, 1876).

At Cambridge: One Browne's Medallist (1848); One Camden Medallist (1862); One Chancellor's Classical Medal (1850); Two Chancellor's Medals, English Poem (1861, 1863); One Chancellor's Medal, Legal Studies (1861); Four Bell Scholarships (1861, 1873, 1878, 1885); One Craven Scholarship (1863); One Whewell International Law Scholarship (1872); Two Porson Prizes (1871, 1872); Four Members' Prizes for Latin Essay (1863, 1864, 1865, 1881); One Evans Theological Prize (1884); One Scholefield Theological Prize (1884); One Carus Greek Testament Prize (1885); One Winchester Reading Prize (1872).

Cheltenham has likewise produced One Senior Classic (1881); Three Second Classics (1850, 1858, 1864); One Third Classic (1862); and One Third Wrangler (1870).

The admissions of Cheltenham boys into the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, and also to the now extinct Military College, Addiscombe, have been very numerous (upwards of 450); whilst into the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, they are countless. Of those who entered Woolwich and Addiscombe, five have passed in first, direct from the College (1860, 1861, 1864, 1876, 1878); whilst seventeen Old Cheltonians have passed out as First Engineer, nine from Addiscombe (1851, 1852, 1853, 1856, 1857, two in 1858, 1859, 1861), and eight from Woolwich (1849, 1862, 1872, 1874, 1876, two in 1878, 1887).

The Indian Civil Service Examination, the most difficult of all competitive examinations has been successfully passed by 65 boys direct from the College, of whom one obtained the first place (1877).

As regards the various professions, it appears that the number of Cheltonians who have entered into each, as gathered from the information thus far collected, is as follows:—Army, 1771; Barristers, 116; Clergy, 320; Medical, 53; Royal Navy, 51; and Solicitors, 71.

A few words must now be said about the games, etc., and the physical education of the School, from the first period of its coming into note. Both the old Directors and the Council have ever been most liberal in fostering these. In cricket the College has always well held its own, as the records will fully testify. In football it has taken and still occupies one of the first places, and has never been stronger than at the present time. The athletic sports introduced by Mr. Southwood in 1853, to which the best part of two days are allotted, have thriven year by year, and never flagged, under the careful management of Mr. Porcher. In 1859 the nucleus of a Boat Club was started at Tewkesbury. It is surprising to see to what dimensions it has spread, when the difficulties of the position are taken into consideration. Nine long miles separate Cheltenham from the rivers Severn and Avon, and the pecuniary question alone would have been found a serious obstacle, had not the liberality of the Midland Railway Company allowed special low fares to members of the Boat Club. It could not, as a matter of course, compete on equal terms with a school such as Eton, which is situated on the river side, but the wonder is that its popularity and success have been so great. In the year 1879 Cheltenham had the honour of becoming the first holders of the Public Schools Challenge Cup at the Henley Regatta. This race, however, was abolished a few years later. The Rifle Corps, enrolled in 1862, has fluctuated at times in its numbers, but on many occasions it has done doughty deeds and achieved fame, notably when it won the Ashburton Shield at Wimbledon in 1877 and 1881, (besides being twice equal first, viz., in 1880 and 1889), as also the Spencer Cup in the years 1864, 1867, 1869, 1872, 1874, 1876 and 1877. Besides which the Public Schools Veterans' Trophy has been carried off by the Old Cheltonians in 1878, 1883, 1885, 1886, 1888 and 1889.

One feature in the physical training of the College deserves to be noted, viz., the great variety of games and healthy amusements which are open to boys who do not care to join in any of the above mentioned. There is a first-rate gymnasium, furnished with all that can be wanted in that respect, and as a proof of the excellent work that is done by the boys under the painstaking supervision of the instructors, it may be mentioned that the College has on three occasions—1885, 1886 and 1887—succeeded in winning the Public Schools' Challenge Shield, competed for at Aldershot, and are the absolute possessors of the first Shield. Splendid racquet and fives courts are available both for the elder and for the younger boys; while to those of a mechanical turn, the workshops provide a most desirable and useful occupation for leisure hours. It is an old tale now to cry up the importance of athletic training—it is admitted by all—but who can under-estimate the value of the subsidiary outlets for boys, not necessarily of the lower type but of the weaker nature? It is this which saves many from loafing and rowdyism, and other evil communications which not only corrupt good manners, but pour oil of vitriol on the roses of young lives.

It would be impossible in a short treatise like this to enumerate all Old Cheltonians who have done and are still doing credit to their School in their respective careers in life. All that can be done is summa sequi fastigia rerum. In the Army we may mention Major-General Sir T. D. Baker, K.C.B., Aide-de-Camp to the Queen; Major-General Sir Charles Warren, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., R.E.; Colonel Sir C. W. Wilson, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., R.E.; Colonel Sir F. Carrington, K.C.M.G.; the late Colonel Sir J. U. Bateman-Champain, K.C.M.G., R.E.; the late Colonel P. H. S. Barrow, C.B., C.M.G.; and the late Colonel J. D. H. Stewart, C.M.G., the companion of General Gordon at Khartoum. In the Church, amongst other noteworthy representatives we have Lord Plunket, D.D., Archbishop of Dublin; the Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Chichester; the Very Rev. E. R. Currie, D.D., Dean of Battle; the Very Rev. H. Stewart, D.D., late Dean of Dromore; the Very Rev. H. B. Bromby, late Dean of Hobart, Tasmania; the Rev. W. W. Merry, D.D., Rector of Lincoln College, Oxford, and Public Orator to the University; the Rev. R. J. Wilson, M.A., Warden of Keble College, Oxford; the Rev. F. J. A. Hort, D.D., Lady Margaret Professor of Divinity at Cambridge University; the Rev. H. Robeson, M.A., Canon of Bristol; and the Rev. R. E. Trefusis, M.A., Canon of Exeter. Of those engaged in Education, the Rev. J. Robertson, M.A., Head Master of Haileybury College; the Rev. C. McDowall, D.D., Head Master of Highgate School, and Prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral; Henry Jackson, Litt.D., Senior Fellow and Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge; and Matthews Kempson, M.A., Fellow of Calcutta University, late Director of Public Instruction, North-West Provinces, India. In the profession of Law:—The Right Hon. Sir Henry James, Q.C., M.P., late Attorney-General (and who subsequently refused the Lord Chancellorship); the Hon. Sir J. D. Barry, Chief Justice of the Eastern District, Cape Colony; C. I. Elton, Q.C., M.P.; R. T. Reid, Q.C., M.P.; F. T. Dames-Longworth, Q.C. (Irish); W. F. McDonell, V.C., late Judge of the High Court of Judicature, Calcutta; and F. Brandt, late Judge of the High Court of Judicature, Madras. In Literature:—The Right Hon. John Morley, M.P.; W. E. H. Lecky, D.C.L., historian; R. E. Francillon, novelist; and F. W. H. Myers, M.A. In Art:—Briton Riviere, Royal Academician; and S. E. Waller. In Architecture:—Professor J. H. Middleton, M.A., Slade Professor of Fine Art in the University of Cambridge. The Victoria Cross has been gained by five of Cheltonia's sons, viz.: Major A. C. Bogle, in 1857; W. F. McDonell, in 1857; Midshipman D. G. Boyes in 1864; Colonel G. N. Channer, in 1875; and Colonel R. C. Hart, in 1879; whilst another Old Cheltonian, Lieut. T. Melville, would have been recommended to Her Majesty for the honour had he survived.

All the above were at the College either prior to or during Dr. Barry's Principalship. It is not possible to give the names of many of more recent date, who are rapidly making their way on the road to distinction.

On two occasions has the College been honoured by the presence of Royalty. The first being the visit of H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge, Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief, who distributed the prizes on Speech Day, Friday, 29th June, 1883; and the next visit was that of H. R.H. the Princess Mary of Cambridge (Duchess of Teck) and H.S.H. the Duke of Teck and their daughter the Princess Victoria, who were also present on a Speech Day—Tuesday, 28th June, 1886—the Princess Mary distributing the prizes, on which occasion her son, Prince Francis, was the winner of two prizes.

This sketch should not be ended without noticing a somewhat important fact connected with the governing body. As vacancies occur from time to time they have been replaced by Old Cheltonians of established worth. Who more likely than they to appreciate the wants and understand the peculiarities of the School which educated them? Who more likely than they to have its best interests at heart, and to bestow upon it their truest sympathies? Although the loss of Lord Redesdale would necessarily be felt at first, it is a matter of congratulation to have as his successor such a President as Sir Henry James. This is not the place to enumerate the details of his famous career—of the learned lawyer, of the much-coveted advocate, of the accomplished orator, and of the loyal-hearted statesman; these are matters of history. It suffices to say that while all Old Cheltonians welcome to their highest seat their most distinguished schoolfellow, Cheltonia herself can boast of no truer and more loving son.

The writer is fully conscious of the imperfections and shortcomings in this brief sketch. It may be that one who has for a long time stood nearest the canvas is not the best person to describe the picture; but such as it is he commends it to the kindness and forbearance of his fellow Old Cheltonians.

THE COLLEGE BUILDINGS.

A school of very recent foundation can rarely secure from the world in general any great interest in its buildings, such as every one must feel in Eton and Winchester, or the old schools of the Charter House and Shrewsbury, unless it chance to have installed itself in a habitation of respectable age, as Marlborough and Radley did ; or to have started from the first with a scheme of considerable architectural pretension, as Lancing and others have done ; or possibly had both these advantages, like the astonishing pile of buildings which dominates the valley of the Ribble at Stonyhurst.

Still our College has a certain interest of its own, as showing how a comparatively small school, starting with proportionate "plant," gradually adapted itself to the requirements of the very large institution that it became. In this way the story of the buildings is the story of the School ; and the best way, consequently, of describing them is to take them pretty nearly in order of date, and note their sizes, various uses from time to time, and, so far as it can be ascertained, the amounts expended on them.

The actual school buildings of course come first. As they now stand, they consist of a large parallelogram, about 230 feet by 200 feet, containing the two Big Rooms and main entrance, with class rooms, etc., on the side towards the Bath Road ; two long wings with class rooms at right angles to the main building ; an open racquet court, a museum, and several smaller rooms, forming the fourth side, enclosing an open quadrangle. Behind these again the Chapel, and lastly, attached to this square block of buildings to the south-west, the long narrow wing of the Junior School.

All this was by no means built at one time, nor by the same architect, nor have the uses of the rooms always remained the same ; but the growth spreads over a period of altogether forty-one years (1843-1884).

The *Original School*¹ standing in a playground of about half the size of the present one, is the long principal façade towards the Bath Road, consisting of two long clerestoried "naves" (if one may borrow ecclesiastical terms to describe them) with aisles, double transepts, and a central tower with battlements and turrets and hexagonal flying buttress at each corner, which rises to a height of about 80 feet ; the middle block, containing the hall, staircase, five upstairs rooms,² and three ground-floor rooms.³ On either side are the two Big Rooms, and opening

THE "BIG CLASSICAL."

from them a number of smaller class rooms. The "Big Classical" forms the right wing of the chief front of the College, and is lighted from the clerestory by a range of square-headed windows with mullions and tracery, while the south end has a large and handsome bay window, 20 feet wide and 35 feet high, divided into three stories, and having mullions and tracery corresponding to the windows in front. Between each of the latter is a buttress, or pier, terminating in a crocketed pinnacle. Along the ground-floor front a range of building projects from the main wall, like the aisles of some of our old churches, and consisting of a series of separate apartments, lighted by windows of the same order as those in the clerestory, though smaller in size, having two, instead of three lights each. The elevation and architectural arrangements of the left wing, which now forms the "Big Modern," correspond in almost every particular with those of the right above described. The length of each of the large classical and modern rooms is 90 feet, and the breadth 45 feet. The whole is in what is called "Late Perpendicular," or "Tudor" style, and remains outwardly unaltered, as originally designed by Mr. J. Wilson, of Bath. But a great change has taken place in its use; for when the School started it had only one department, the "Classical," and the present "Big Modern" was built as a gymnasium, etc., so that one long building contained everything that was wanted for the School under one roof.

1850.

In 1850 the "Modern Department" was begun, and the gymnasium side of the main building adapted for it at a cost of about £730. From that time there has been no further change of any importance in this block. The two Big Rooms remain much as at first, except that their walls have gradually become covered with records of success—scholarships, University honours, Woolwich, Addiscombe, Civil Service, and other achievements—which are duly set forth in other parts of the Register, and need not be further noted here. The only other adornment of the walls are two pictures by Mr. Edwin Williams, one, in the "Classical," of the Rev. William Dobson, M.A., a former Principal of the College,¹ and the other in the "Modern," of the Rev. Thomas Allen Southwood—both very successful portraits.

1852.

In 1852 the next addition to the buildings was made, being the two old Racquet Courts next to the present Chapel (one of which is now the Museum) and some arrangement of Fives Courts, though not apparently what Cheltonians of 20 years ago remember, as further changes were made in the following year. The outlay in 1852 was about £1200.

1853.

In 1853 very important additions were made. The Classical and Modern wings were built, attached to the older school by long corridors, with large doorways opening into what now became an enclosed "Quad." These wings contain eleven additional class or lecture rooms, which remain as when first built, though their particular uses have of course varied. In the same year the Racquet and Fives Court were extended, and arrangements made for warming and ventilating the whole of the buildings, and supplying them with hill water. The cost of all this seems to have been about £5,000.

1856.

The next work taken in hand, completing the college buildings and bringing them to what for many years seemed likely to be their full extension, was the Chapel. This, in plan, is a simple parallelogram, about 115 feet by 53 feet outside, with tall transomed windows between buttresses towards the playground, and entrance porch to the north-east, a roof of low pitch, and an open parapet with pinnacles, the whole being built of ashlar Bath stone, and the style adopted by the architect, the late Mr. D. J. Humphris, of Cheltenham (who designed also the wings, and superintended all work at the College at that time), being the same "Late Perpendicular" as that of the School itself. On Wednesday, 24th February, 1858, the building was opened for divine service. The Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol (Dr. Charles Baring) took part in the service and preached the first sermon, taking for his text St. Luke xi. 13. Inside, the entrance is between two vestries and under the ladies' gallery, which is reached by a screened staircase. The general arrangements differ from the traditional "use" of college chapels, in that the seats for the boys mostly face "eastward" (though it is not east in this case), a single line of seats for masters, under canopies, alone being ranged laterally against the walls, as also the choir seats and those behind them. The woodwork throughout is of pine, and the fittings of a simple description. The pulpit is of fine-grained freestone, carved, as is also the screen above the Communion Table. The floor around the altar is inlaid with Minton's encaustic tiles, and the railing is supported by ornamental iron-work. On either side of the Communion Table are a series of marble tablets inscribed with the names of Old Cheltonians who have fallen in the various wars of their country, and of which the following is a list:—

Crimean War, 1854-55. Major B. D. Gilby; Captains W. R. Corbet, E. Every, and R. S. Sherwood; Lieutenants J. H. S. Carter, C. H. Evans, F. K. Kirby, R. S. Machell, D. G. C. MacLachlan, E. P. Marshall, R. H. Somerville, and H. F. Wilmer.

Indian Mutiny, 1857-58. Captains R. Bogle, J. Dalzell, and T. W. H. Hutchinson; Lieutenants C. Battine, F. J. Cunliffe, C. M. Farquharson, A. P. Grant, E. Jones, C. E. Lewes, N. A. Martin, A. W. Murray, W. W. Pitt, C. A. Robertson, G. W. Rutherford, E. Salwey, and E. Walker; Cornet C. Mainwaring; and C. W. Cunliffe and R. H. Pomeroy, both of the Bengal Civil Service.

China War, 1860. Cornet W. T. Jay.

India (North-West Frontier Expedition), 1868. Captain A. U. F. Ruxton.

Ashantee War, 1873-74. Lieutenants F. H. Eardley-Wilmot and W. A. Johnston.

Afghan War, 1878-80. Lieutenant-Colonels A. G. Daubeney and W. H. Newport; Majors A. D. Anderson, R. J. Le Poer Trench, A. M. Shewell, and R. G. T. Stevenson; Captains C. A. Carthew, J. H. Gamble, R. B. Reed, and W. Roberts; Lieutenants R. E. L. Dacres, A. E. Dobson, W. F. Hennell, W. N. Justice, J. T. Rice, and H. H. S. Spoor.

South African Wars, 1879-81. Major L. C. Singleton; Lieutenants R. W. Franklin, G. C. J. Johnson, T. Melvill and A. H. Saltmarshe.

Egyptian War, 1882. Major T. Colville; Lieutenants R. J. Parkinson and L. Somervell.

THE CHAPEL—EXTERIOR.

THE CHAPEL—INTERIOR.

Soudan War, 1884-85. Lieutenant-Colonels P. H. S. Barrow, C.B., C.M.G., and J. D. H. Stewart, C.M.G.; Lieutenants A. T. F. Edwards, J. D. Guthrie, and J. F. Soltau.

Burmese War, 1886-87. Captains W. G. Dunsford and R. T. Roberts; Lieutenant H. T. Shubrick, and G. M. Mc N. Rind, Burma Police.

Besides the above, there are also the following memorials in the chapel:—

1. Marble tablet, with medallion portrait, to the Rev. William Dobson, M.A. (by Thomas Woolner, R.A.)

“Gulielmo Dobson A.M. Coll: S. Trin. apud Cantabr. olim e sociis rectori provido Magistro strenuo interpreti sollerti præceptorî indefesso. P. C. Cheltoniensium pietas. Coll. Chelt. cui per annos xv præfuit parvum invenit magnum reliquit vixit annos lviii vita decessit prid. kal. Ian. A.D. MDCCCLXVII.”

(To William Dobson, M.A., formerly Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, a wise Principal, an active master, an accomplished scholar, an unwearied teacher, this monument has been raised by the affection of Cheltenham boys. He was for 15 years at the head of this College; he found it small, he left it great. He died 31st December, 1867, at the age of 58.)

2. Marble tablet, with medallion portrait, to John Wyllie, Esq., C.S.I.; his crest (a fox courant proper) is carved above.

“In memoriam Johannis Gulielmi Shaw Wyllie in rebus indicis gerendis, si quis alius æqualium strenui audacis felicitas spes egregias suorum præcisas quidem at nulla ex parte delusas reliquit stellæ indicæ comes. Primitias honorum hac in æde Cheltoniensi carpsit, Coll: Sanctiss: Trin: Oxon: postea e scholaribus, cujus tanti viri ne memoria defloresceret, ex alumnis Cheltoniensibus optimum sanctissimæ Trinitatis inter scholares adscribendum collato ære curaverunt amici. Qui legis exemplum sequere. Natus prid non. Oct. M.D.CCC.XXXV. Obiit Indibus Martius M.D.CCC.LXX.”

(In memory of John William Shaw Wyllie, who was distinguished among his contemporaries alike for his energy, his courage, and his success in the Civil Service of India. The high expectations of his friends, though cut short, were fully justified. He was a Companion of the Star of India. He gained his earlier honours in this College at Cheltenham, and was afterwards a scholar of Trinity College, Oxford. To preserve the memory of so noble a man, his friends have founded a scholarship at Trinity College to be held by an Old Cheltonian. Reader, follow his example. Born 6th October, 1835. Died 15th March, 1870.)

3. Brass, with armorial bearings engraved and coloured, placed at the back of Council seat on the pulpit side, and inscribed:—

“In memory of Sir Alexander Ramsay, Baronet, of Balmain. Life member of the Council of Cheltenham College. Died March 3rd, 1875. In recognition of the great services rendered by him to the College during the twenty-two years he was a member of the Governing Body.”

4. Marble tablet (by H. L. Boulton, of Cheltenham), with medallion portrait of Major Pierson in the uniform of the Royal Engineers; his crest (a dove, holding an olive branch in her beak) and motto (“Dum spiro spero”) are carved above, and beneath is this inscription:—

“In memory of Major William Henry Pierson, Royal Engineers, who died at Bunnoo, on 2nd June, 1881, aged 41 years, whilst commanding Royal Engineer Wuzereee Field Force. His brilliant career at Addiscombe reflected honour on this College. Gifted with varied and splendid talents, successful in works of great national importance, he was most distinguished by 'soldier-like, self-denying devotion to his duty.' Erected by order of the Council, in acknowledgment of the high example given by William Henry Pierson to the Pupils of Cheltenham College."

5. Marble tablet (by Boulton) with medallion portrait of Colonel Stewart, C.M.G., in the uniform of his regiment. Above are engraved his armorial bearings (Arms. Quarterly, 1st and 4th grand quarters, quarterly, 1st and 4th, or, a lion rampant, gules, within a double tressure flory counterflory gules; 2nd and 3rd, or, a fesse chaquy argent and azure; the whole within a bordure gobony argent and vert, a crescent for difference; 2nd and 3rd grand quarters, azure, a fesse dencetté argent, between three martlets sable. Crests. 1. An unicorn's head, couped or, armed and crined argent, charged with a crescent. 2. A dexter naked arm, issuant, grasping a crescent. Motto. "Forward.")

"In memory of Lieut.-Colonel John Donald Hamill Stewart, C.M.G., of the 11th (Prince Albert's Own) Hussars, who whilst engaged on a special mission in the Soudan, under Major-General C. G. Gordon, C.B., R.E., was wrecked on the River Nile near Merowe in Nubia where he and his followers were treacherously massacred by the natives on the 18th Sept., 1884. In testimony of the distinguished services rendered to his Country and of the Honour his career reflected on Cheltenham College where he had received his early training, this memorial has been placed here by past and present Cheltonians."

6. Marble tablet (by Boulton) with medallion portrait, to the Rev. Thomas Allen Southwood, M.A.

"In memoriam Viri Reverendi T. A. Southwood, A.M. Per xxxv annos militaribus et civilibus hujusce collegii disciplinis praepositi A.D. xiii Kal : Octob : MDCCCLXXXV anno aetatis suae LXXV mortui. Magistrum amicum diligentem dilectum qui discipulos omnes discentes ludentes consilio sapientia adjuvabat eosdem ubique terrarum sparsos memori prosequeretur studio sublatus ex oculis in animis haesurum pietate devincti Cheltonienses fleverunt."

(In memory of the Reverend Thomas Allen Southwood, M.A., who was for 35 years Head Master of the Military and Civil Department of this College, and who died 19th September, 1885, in the 75th year of his age. As a master, he was kindly, energetic, and deeply loved. Both in work and play he helped his pupils by his wise counsel, and followed them afterwards in spirit when scattered in all parts of the world. The boys of Cheltenham mourned his death with grateful affection, and though taken from their sight he will ever live in their hearts.)

7. Marble tablet, with medallion portrait, of Colonel Barrow, C.B., C.M.G., in the uniform of his regiment. Above the medallion is his coat-of-arms.

"In memory of Colonel Percy Harry Stanley Barrow, C.B., C.M.G., 19th (Princess of Wales's Own) Hussars. Born 15th October, 1848. Died at Cairo, 13th January, 1886, from the result of wounds received in the cavalry charge at El Teb on the 29th February, 1884. In testimony of the distinguished services rendered to his country and in recognition of the Honour which his distinguished military career reflected on this College, where he received his early training, this memorial has been placed here by past and present members of Boyne House."

8. Marble tablet (by Boulton), with medallion portrait of Colonel Sir John Underwood Bateman-Champain, K.C.M.G., in the uniform of the Royal Engineers. Two shields above show his armorial bearings.

"In memory of Colonel Sir John Bateman-Champain, K.C.M.G., Royal Engineers, of Halton Park, Lancaster, Born in London, July 22nd, 1835. Died at San Remo, Feby 1st, 1887.—From this College of which he was a distinguished pupil he passed through Addiscombe to his Commission Facile Princesps of all his comrades.—A brilliant service throughout the Sepoy War including the Sieges of Delhi and Lucknow, marked his early career in India.—To his conspicuous ability, rare tact and sound judgment, is chiefly due the successful accomplishment of the great work of his later life, the Telegraphic system which now binds the Indian Empire to the United Kingdom.—Erected by his Widow and Friends."

9. Marble tablet (by Boulton), with medallion portrait of John Brook-Smith, Esq., M.A.

"In memory of John Brook-Smith, M.A., for 38 years a Master in the Modern Department, of which he died Head Master 5th May, 1888, soon after appointment to that office. This tablet is erected by the Council of Cheltenham College, in record of the ability and faithfulness which characterised his performance of duty, whether as teacher or House Master."

10. Brass tablet inscribed: "In Memory of George Malcolm McNeil Rind, Burma Police, shot in an affray with dacoits, 11th December, 1887. Erected by his brother officers."

For colour, the Chapel is dependent on its Windows, eighteen in number, which have been given from time by friends of the School, and as the majority of them are memorials, a separate note of each may not be out of place here. The following key plan will make their identification more easy:—

No. 1. The window above the altar is a large transomed composition of seven lights, and has a double row of figures. In the upper tier are St. John the Baptist and six of the Apostles; in the lower, our Saviour and the other Apostles.

Inscription on Brass beneath:—"The window over the Communion Table was presented by Rev. W. Dobson, M.A., Principal of Cheltenham College. A.D. 1858." Mr. Dobson's armorial bearings appear on the top of the window.

No. 2. The upper tier (1, 2, 3) contains figures of Christ and little children. The lower one (4, 5, 6) is painted on zinc in metallic colours, and contains scriptural subjects. The following are the legends beneath each:—(4) "The Lord is King for ever and ever." (5) "The Lord hath chosen thee to build an house for the Sanctuary"; also "The Lord's feast is in heaven." (6) "The Lord is in His holy temple." This zinc painting was executed by Mr. W. Warrington, of London, and presented by him to the College in 1860.

The windows on this side of the Chapel have upper lights only, the lower portion never having been opened out, but filled in with masonry, owing doubtless to the fact of the old racquet courts being constructed immediately behind, one of which is now the Museum.

No. 3. Armorial bearings of (1) Lieut. E. Every (Erminois, two chevronels azure between two others gules). (2) A wreath of laurels. (3) Captain C. H. Evans (Quarterly, 1st and 4th, argent, three war saddles sable; 2nd, or, a lion rampant regardant sable; 3rd, argent, a chevron sable between three Cornish choughs proper; 4th, sable, a lion rampant argent within a bordure engrailed or; 5th, or, a chevron between three mullets sable).

Inscription on brass:—"The above window and the three others of a corresponding character, were erected by subscription, in memory of the officers (late pupils of the College) who fell in the Crimea, A.D. 1855."

No. 4. On the canopies above the scriptural subjects are the following armorial bearings:—(1) Captain J. Dalzell (Sable, a naked man, proper); (2) Lieut. E. Salwey (Sable, a saltire or); (3) Lieut. E. Walker (Per pale, sable and argent, on a chevron between three crescents as many annulets all counterchanged). Beneath these shields are the following scriptural subjects and legends:—(4) The anointing of David by Samuel—"The Lord said, Arise anoint him." (5) Saul putting his helmet on David—"Go, and the Lord be with thee." (6) David assuming the sword—"David girded his sword upon his armour."

This window was erected in memory of three officers, former pupils of the College, who were killed during the Indian Mutiny.

No. 5. Armorial bearings of:—(1) Major B. D. Gilby (Azure, a fess wavy argent between three estoiles argent). (2) A wreath of laurels. (3) Lieut. R. H. Somerville (Azure, three mullets argent, two and one, between six cross crosslets fitchée argent, two, one, two and one; impaling, argent, two chevronels azure). Vide Inscription under Window No. 3.

No. 6. Armorial bearings of (1) University of Oxford; (2) Diocese of Gloucester and Bristol; (3) University of Cambridge.

Inscription on brass:—"The above window exhibiting the arms of the Diocese and those of Oxford and Cambridge, was erected by subscription, A.D. 1858."

No. 7. Armorial bearings of (1) Captain R. S. Sherwood. (Argent, a chevron sable, between three mullets gules). (2) Lieut. J. H. S. Carter (Sable, two lions combatant or.) (3) Lieut. D. G. C. Maclachlan (Quarterly; 1st, argent, a lion rampant gules; 2nd, argent, a dexter hand fessways coupé gules, holding a cross patée fitchée, sable; 3rd, or, on a sea in base, a galley, sails furled, and oars in saltire, sea flags, sable; 4th, argent, on a sea in base, a salmon naiant, proper). Vide inscription under window No. 3.

No. 8. The lights in this window contain (1) armorial bearings of Sherwood (Argent, a chevron sable, between three mullets gules) with the motto "Surculus arbor" beneath. (2) Represents a woman mourning, emblematical of the sorrow of a bereaved and widowed mother, with the legend, "She would not be comforted because they are not." (3) Armorial bearings of son and daughter of Mrs. Sherwood (argent, a chevron sable, between three mullets gules; impaling, argent, on a fess sable between three lions' heads erased gules, three anchors or) motto beneath "Fit surculus arbor." Inscription on brass:—"The above window was presented by Mrs. M. A. Sherwood in memory of her deceased husband and son, the former a Director, the latter a pupil of the College. A.D. 1858."

No. 9. Armorial bearings of (1) Lieut. F. K. Kirby. (Quarterly, 1st and 4th, argent, on a canton gules, out of a ducal coronet or a greyhound's head proper, in chief two bars gules, bars-gemel gules; 2nd and 3rd, argent, on a canton gules, an urn or). (2) A wreath of laurels. (3) Lieut. E. P. Marshall. (Azure, on a saltire argent a crescent azure, three leaves vert, in chief argent; impaling, sable, on a bend argent, three cross crosslets gules.) Vide inscription under window No. 3.

No. 10. The window over the gallery is, like the opposite one above the altar, a large seven-light transomed window. It was the last in the chapel to be filled with stained glass (by Hardman, of Birmingham) and exemplifies the advance in that art which was then beginning to be made. It was placed here "In memory of Captain Robert Bogle, of the 78th Highlanders, and formerly a pupil in this College, who fell in the attack at Lucknow, 1857." The upper tier represents the Adoration of the Magi, and the lower, Christ preaching in the Temple. The following inscription is on the window: "The above window was presented by Michael James and Archibald Scott, his relatives, formerly pupils of this College. A.D. 1866."

No. 11. In upper range of lights—The Return of the Prodigal Son. Lower range—The Reconciliation of Joseph with his Brethren. (By Rogers, of Worcester.)

Inscription on brass: "The above window was presented to the College by the tradesmen of the town of Cheltenham. A.D. 1858."

No. 12. Armorial bearings of (1) Lieut. N. A. Martin. (Sable, on a chevron between three crescents argent, a lozenge sable. Crest.—A lion rampant or, holding in dexter paw a crescent or, and charged on the shoulder with a thistle proper. Motto.—"Hinc fortior et clarior.") (2) Lieut. A. P. Grant. (Gules, three antique crowns or. Crest.—A mountain in flames proper. Motto.—"Stand fast.") (3) R. H. Pomeroy. (Or, a lion rampant gules holding between the paws an apple proper. Crest.—A lion rampant gules holding between the paws an apple proper. Motto.—"Virtutis fortuna comes.") (4) Lieut. W. W. Pitt. (Sable, a fess chequy or and azure, between three bezants. Crest.—A pelican statant proper. Motto.—"Benigno numine.") (5) Lieut. C. Battine (Argent, a lion rampant proper holding between the paws an Eastern crown or, between three battle-axes proper; a chief gules, thereon a fieldpiece mounted on a carriage or between two towers argent, that on the dexter side superinscribed "Hatrass," and that on the sinister side, "Bhurt pore," in letters of gold. Crest.—A demi Bengal artilleryman, habited, holding in his dexter hand a flagstaff proper, therefrom flowing towards the sinister a banner gules inscribed "Bhurt pore" in letters of gold. Motto.—"Virtute et Industria.") (6) Lieut. A. W. Murray. (Azure, a martlet argent between three mullets argent all within a double tressure flory counterflory or; impaling, azure, a castle proper, in chief argent, a crescent azure between two mullets gules. Crest

—A lion rampant gules, holding between the paws a battle-axe proper. Motto.—"Virtute fideque.") (7) Lieut. E. Jones. (Quarterly; 1st and 4th, azure, a chevron or, between three fleurs-de-lys or; 2nd and 3rd, gules, two lions passant guardant or Crest.—A demi-lion rampant argent. Motto.—"Fide.") (8) Lieut. F. J. Cunliffe. (Sable, three conies courant argent. Crest.—A greyhound sejant argent collared sable. Motto.—"Fideliter.") Vide inscription under window No. 14.

No. 13. In this window the lights (1), (3), (4) and (6) contain shields similar to one another, viz., argent, a fess azure, and are evidently inserted merely for purpose of ornamentation. The remaining two lights contain armorial bearings:—(2) C. W. Cunliffe. (Sable, three conies courant argent. Crest.—A greyhound sejant argent collared sable. Motto.—"Fideliter.") (5) Lieut. C. A. Robertson. (Gules, three wolves' heads erased argent. Under the escutcheon a man in chains. Crest.—A dexter hand erect holding an imperial crown, all proper. Motto.—"Virtutis gloria merces.")

Inscription on brass:—"The above window was erected by subscription, in memory of late pupils of the College. A.D. 1862."

No. 14. Armorial bearings of:—(1) Lieut. C. E. Lewes. (Gules, a boar argent between three plumes of ostrich feathers argent. Crest.—A leopard's head cabossed. Motto.—"Spes nostra Deus.") (2) Cornet C. Mainwaring. (Argent, two bars gules. Crest.—Out of a ducal coronet or, an ass's head proper. Motto.—"Devant si je puis.") (3) Captain R. Bogle. (Or, on a chevron gules, between two roses in chief and a demi-lion rampant in base, a cross crosslet fitchée argent issuing out of a crescent or between two bezants. Crest.—A ship in full sail proper. Motto.—"Spe meliori vehor.") (4) Lieut. C. M. Farquharson. (Quarterly, 1st, or, a lion rampant gules; 2nd, argent, a dexter hand holding dagger point upwards, all gules; 3rd, argent, a fir tree growing out of a mount in base fructed proper, on a chief gules the royal banner of Scotland displayed on a canton of the field; 4th, or, a galley sable. Crest.—A demi-lion rampant gules holding in dexter paw a sword proper. Motto.—"Fide et fortitudine.") (5) Lieut. E. Walker. (Per pale sable and argent, on a chevron between three crescents as many annulets all counterchanged. Crest.—A greyhound sejant proper. Motto.—"Nil desperandum.") (6) Lieut. G. W. Rutherford. (Argent, an orle gules and in chief three martlets sable. Crest.—A martlet sable, "Provide" above. Motto.—"Nec sorte nec fato.")

Inscription on brass:—"The above window as well as that over the pulpit were erected by subscription, in memory of the officers (late pupils of the College) who fell in India during the Mutiny. A.D. 1857-58."

(The stained glass then over pulpit has since been removed, and is now placed in window No. 12.)

No. 15. This is a Crimean window. The various lights represent:—(1) Lord Raglan's arms with crest and supporters, with the insignia of the Order of the Bath. (2) St. George, the patron saint of England, slaying the dragon. Pendant from the foliage above is the Crimean Medal with four clasps. (3) Lord Lyons' arms, supporters, crest and motto, with the insignia of the Order of the Bath. (4) A military knight holding the royal banner. (5) Arms of the Commander-in-Chief, H.R.H. Duke of Cambridge, with his crest and full heraldic insignia; above, suspended from the foliage, the Victoria Cross and Ribband. (6) A military knight holding the royal banner. On the lower canopy are the arms of the Rev. T. A. Southwood (a barry of five, gules and argent, surmounted with six mullets or, three, two and one.) The diagonal labels on the grounds contain the several mottoes—"Dieu et Mon Droit," "England and St. George," and others of Lord Raglan, Lord Lyons, etc.

Inscription on brass:—"The above window was presented by the Rev. T. A. Southwood, M.A., Head Master of the Military and Civil Department of Cheltenham College, A.D. 1858."

No 16. Above the pulpit—(upper range) Christ preaching on the Mount. (Lower range) St. Paul preaching.

Inscription on window:—"Sacred to the memory of Edward B. Wawn, Theological Tutor in this College, who fell asleep on St. Michael's Day, 1866."

No. 17. Armorial bearings:—(1) A lion supporter sejant holding a banner emblazoned with a rose. (2) Arms and cognizances of Her Majesty Queen Victoria. (3) An unicorn supporter sejant holding a banner emblazoned with a thistle and shamrock combined. (4) A lion supporter holding banner with arms of the Honourable East India Company. (5) Arms, crest and motto of the Honourable East India Company. (6) A lion supporter as previous. The diagonal tablets contain mottoes.

Inscription on brass:—"The above window was presented by the following Masters of the College, Revds. T. P. Boulton, E. B. Wawn, W. Boyce, J. Birkett, S. A. Ellis, T. A. Southwood, J. C. Turnbull, G. W. Smyth, J. Brook-Smith, Esq., C. D. Chenery, Esq., A. H. Marshall, Esq., C. Clarke, Esq., J. Philp, Esq., W. H. Tyrrell, Esq., W. Riviere, Esq., A.D. 1858."

No. 18. (Above the Organ.) On this window are represented angels playing on musical instruments, harp, guitar and organ, with labels beneath inscribed with the texts, "Praise the Lord upon the harp"; "Sing to the Harp with"; "A Psalm of Thanksgiving."

The windows mentioned above were painted by the following:—Nos. 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9, by Scott, of Carlisle; Nos. 2, 4, 6, 8, 12, 13, 14, 15, 17 and 18, by Warrington, of London; No. 10 by Hardman, of Birmingham; and No. 11, by Davis, of Worcester.

The Organ, with two manuals and twenty-one stops, is by Messrs. Gray and Davison.

A Lectern of brass and iron stands in the middle of the Chapel, and was the gift of the Rev. P. R. R. Sandilands, M.A., a Master of the College.

After the erection of the Chapel there was a long pause, during which there were no further works of extension;¹ but the rapid growth of the school under Dr. Barry (late Bishop of Sydney) necessitated a number of important changes and additions.

As before stated the original school contained a Gymnasium; and when that was evicted to make room for the Modern Department, it had no successor to speak of until 1864, when the present one was built in the playground. It consists of the Gynasium proper in the middle, with an internal gallery all round approached by staircases in the two towers, two racquet courts, into which the gallery also looks through large windows, besides refreshment rooms, cricket dressing-rooms, etc., all on the ground floor. The whole is singularly complete and satisfactory, and, as every Cheltonian knows, it has been put to right good use. The architects were Messrs. Lockwood and Manson, the contractor, Mr. Rainger, and the outlay, £5,120.

Another important work nearly contemporary with the Gymnasium was the new Junior School, built from the designs of the late Mr. John Middleton as a wing to the main building on the Classical side. In style it is Perpendicular, and so far like the rest of the College, but of a distinctly different type, the windows being more pointed and the treatment generally earlier. It consists mainly of one large schoolroom, 115 feet long, under a steep-pitched roof surmounted by a flèche and ornamented internally with pierced panels; a class-room on the side towards the Bath Road; and a small two-storied building, containing an entrance lobby and stairs under a low, square tower having a class-room below, and the College Library upstairs—which, inaugurated in Dr. Barry's time, is still installed here, though its quarters are getting rather "strait" for it.

1865, ETC.

Besides the Gymnasium and Junior School, this period in the College history saw a new departure of still greater moment, and that was with respect to Boarding-houses. Until Dr. Barry's time, House-masters, as sufficiently old Cheltonians will remember, were obliged to look out for large houses in the town, and adapt them as best they might to hold thirty or forty boys. Such houses were The Priory (Mr. Boyce's) and Keynshambury (Mr. Southwood's), in the London Road, Mr. Turnbull's on Bays Hill, and others, which were made the best of pretty much as they stood; others, as Newick House (Mr. Smyth's) and Mr. Price's (2, Bath Villas, now called Southwood House), were added to and so adapted that they can still be used as boarding-houses; but the first real pioneer of the new system was the late Mr. Brook-Smith, whose house (Boyne House) is practically a new one as far as the boys' quarters are concerned, and a very complete and successful one. A regular scheme of houses built for the purpose was now obviously desirable for what was an increasingly great school; and though some may have regretted the change from the sociable common-room and bedroom for five or six to the dormitories and studies, where one had to read something at any rate "pour passer le temps," still maturer judgment may acknowledge that it was for the better in the long run. The eight large houses connected with the College all date, in the present form, from about this time. Four of them, "Cheltondale," "Christowe," "Leconfield," and "Teighmore" (for junior boys), were built by the College Boarding House Company, at an outlay of £16,000. They are much on the same plan, having a master's house in front and a long wing at the back, with common-room, hall, senior boys' studies, dormitories, etc. Mr. Middleton was architect of the first, and Mr. Knight of the other three. The four which were built or adapted by private enterprise, viz., "Boyne House," "Hazelwell," "Southwood House," and "Newick House," vary much more in character and accommodation, one (Hazelwell) being an entirely new building (Mr. Knight, architect), while Boyne House and Southwood House had new quarters for boys attached to existing Masters' houses.

Altogether the accommodation is very complete—no Public School perhaps possessing better. The average capacity of these eight houses is for forty-five boys, Boyne House being the largest and holding sixty. Besides these there are of course many smaller houses connected with the College, which have been bought from time to time and adapted to hold ten or fifteen boys.

The next acquisition in point of date seems to have been the Sanatorium at Leckhampton, on which £1,057 was expended in adding to and fitting it to its present purpose.

1870.

In Dr. Jex-Blake's time several alterations were made in the College itself and the playground, the first being the adaptation of one of the original racquet courts for the purpose of a Museum, at an outlay of £700, an improvement initiated by Mr. Charles Pierson, and since named after him, as the following inscription on a tablet in the Museum will show:—

CHARLES PIERSON, Esq^{re}

Who presented to this College

His large and valuable collection

Geological Specimens.

By Order of the Council May 1883.

1871, 1872.

In the following year £200 was spent on the racquet courts in the Gymnasium in putting in a new floor as at Prince's and in 1872 the new Grand Stand, for use at the Athletic Sports, holding 600 people, was put up as a permanent institution, instead of the annual hireling which preceded it.

1874.

The next purchase was Montpellier Lodge, which has since been the residence of the Principal of the College, and a considerable sum was spent in adapting and re-arranging it.

1874 TO 1878.

During the next few years the improvements were mainly in the playground—a clock was put up in one of the Gymnasium towers (1874), the two new Eton Fives Courts added to the end of the Gymnasium at a cost of £300 (1876), and the Workshops erected at an outlay of £1,400. These latter are in a line with the Gymnasium, but farther away from the main College buildings, and were completed in 1879, to enable such boys as have a taste for practical work and construction to receive systematic training in carpentry. They are fitted with carpenters' benches for eighteen boys and vice-benches for twelve, with five turning lathes. There is also a smith's shop with forge and anvil, and the necessary store-rooms, etc.

In 1879 a very desirable addition was made to the College "plant"—to wit, the new Baths, the largest perhaps attached to any school. These are situated near the playground for the junior boys. They were completed and ready for use in the autumn of 1880. The architect was Mr. W. H. Knight, of Cheltenham. The cost of the buildings, laying out the ground and fencing, amounted to £8,418. The exterior is principally of white brick with some stonework to the windows, and the general interior arrangements consist of a large swimming bath, 80 feet long by 40 feet wide, with a depth varying from 3 feet 6 inches to 7 feet, and holding about 100,000 gallons of water, the sides and part of the bottom having white glazed tiles. There are also warm baths and fifty dressing boxes at the sides and end; these, to the height of 5 feet 6 inches, are lined with white tiles. In addition to this, there are the necessary towel washing and drying rooms, attendant's room, and engine and boiler rooms, etc. The interior of the swimming bath room is 105 feet by 63 feet, with an average height of 26 feet; thoroughly ventilated, and lighted by windows at the sides and glass on the roof, being warmed by steam-pipes all round the walls, so as to maintain the temperature of the air at 60 degrees during the cold weather. The supply of water is ample, very clear, and of good quality, and is obtained from a series of wells sunk in the sand bed. About 33,000 gallons of water are usually pumped daily into the swimming bath at one end, and as the overflow is at the other end, a current is caused, which materially adds to the cleanliness and freshness of the bath. At short intervals the bath is entirely emptied and cleaned out. During the pumping, the temperature of the water is raised from 52 degrees in the wells to 68 or 70 degrees on entering the bath, ready for the immediate use of bathers. Adjoining the Baths is the Engineer's residence.

In these years some alterations were made in the College itself, new lighting being arranged for the Big Rooms; and Masters' reading and cloak rooms being fitted up in the former apartments of the Porter, for whom a new lodge was built in the playground, at a cost of about £500.

1883.

In this year the four Rugby Fives Courts were built in the playground, at a cost of £1,100.

1884.

In 1884, the "Quad." as Old Cheltonians remember it, with its fives court, was encroached upon by the new Chemical Laboratory and four Science Class Rooms, with a cloister leading to them, the expenditure being some £2,150. This year also saw what seems to have been the last work of school extension, viz., the purchase of the new playground for the Junior School and the erection of a Pavilion for their use.

There the record ends for the present; and the College, being well provided, may rest for a while upon its oars. Some day there will probably be new growths and new needs, and then there will be new developments.

THE COLLEGE ARMS.

(For Illustration see Frontispiece.)

Described in the language of heraldry, the blazon of the coat is as follows:—Quarterly, 1st and 4th gules, 2nd and 3rd sable; on the 1st, two keys in saltire, or; 2nd, an open book, proper, showing a marker on the sinister page, garnished, or; 3rd, a fasces in pale proper: 4th, two swords, saltirewise, points upwards, proper hilted and pomelled, or, surmounted by a star of five points of the same. Over all a cross, or. Motto.—"Labor omnia vincit."

The colours of the arms-field are the College colours, red and black. The cross-keys are the arms of the See of Gloucester, and signify that the College is in that diocese. The book represents Learning. The fasces is typical of the Classical department; and the cross-swords of the Military and Civil department. The star above the cross-swords was taken from the crest of the Rev. Thomas Allen Southwood, M.A., in honour of the great success attending his labours during the period of 35 years that he was Head Master of the Military and Civil Department.

CHELTENHAM COLLEGE MISSION.

Cheltenham College, being situated in a large town where there is a considerable poor population, carries on a Mission, not in the East End of London, as many of the Public Schools do, but among the poor of its own neighbourhood. To this end the Town and College Industrial School was opened seven years ago. From twenty to thirty lads find employment there during the winter months in cutting wood into faggots for lighting fires; in the summer the number of boys employed is a good deal reduced.

Respectable boys with bad or no homes are lodged in the house for a small payment, and are thus saved making the acquaintance of the lowest class of lodging-houses.

A school is carried on most evenings of the week, and there is a Sunday class every Sunday evening.

Several boys have had good situations found them, many have been helped to emigrate, and the "old boys" who live in the town are formed into a club, which meets periodically at the School.

Cheltenham College assists by offertories, subscriptions in the Houses, entertainments given in the Big Classical, and presents of cricketing things and old clothes.

Subscriptions from Old Cheltonians would be most gratefully received and acknowledged by the Honorary Secretary, the Rev. James A. Owen, M.A., 22, Suffolk Square, Cheltenham.

THE GREEK PLAYS AT CHELTENHAM.

The College can also claim a full share in the recent revival of Greek drama initiated at Oxford. Two most successful representations of tragedies not before performed in England have recently been given. The Electra of Sophocles (music by Dr. Dyer) was performed at the College on June 28th, 29th, and 30th, 1888, and the Œdipus Coloneus with Mendelssohn's music on June 27th, 28th, and 29th, 1889. On opposite page is an illustration of each.

COLLEGE BOARDING-HOUSES AND HOUSE MASTERS.

All the existing large Boarding-houses, with the exception of Boyne House, Newick House, and Southwood House, were erected during the Principalship of Dr. Barry. Beaufort House, which was for many years used as a Boarding-house, was abolished in 1888. Besides those already mentioned, there are several small private houses, where a few Boarders are taken in by the College Masters.

Expedition in 1875-76 with the Malacca Column in operations in Sunghie Ujong, Terrachee, and Srimenanti ; led the advanced party at the surprise and capture of Malay stockades in Bukit Putus Pass (mentioned in despatches, Brevet of Major, Victoria Cross, and Medal with clasp) ; received the Victoria Cross "for having with the greatest gallantry been the first to jump in the enemy's stockade, to which he had been despatched with a small party of the 1st Goorkha Light Infantry, on the afternoon of the 20th December, 1875, by the officer commanding the Malacca Column to procure intelligence as to its strength, position, &c. Major Channer got completely in rear of the enemy's position, and finding himself so close that he could hear the voices of the men inside, who were cooking at the time, and keeping no look-out, he beckoned to his men, and the whole party stole quietly forward to within a few paces of the stockade. On jumping in, he shot the first man dead with his revolver, and his party then came up and entered the stockade, which was of a most formidable nature, surrounded by a bamboo palisade ; about seven yards within was a log-house, loop-holed, with two narrow entrances, and trees laid latitudinally, to the thickness of two feet. The officer commanding reports that if Major Channer, by his foresight, coolness, and intrepidity, had not taken this stockade, a great loss of life must have occurred, as from the fact of his being unable to bring guns to bear on it, from the steepness of the hill, and the density of the jungle, it must have been taken at the point of the bayonet." Served with the expedition against the Jowaki Afreedees in 1877 (clasp). Served with the 29th Punjab Infantry in the Afghan War of 1878-80 with the Koorum Field Force, and was present in command of the regiment at the attack and capture of the Peiwar Kotal (mentioned in despatches, Brevet of Lieut.-Colonel, Medal with clasp). Captain, 4th Battalion West Riding Regiment (Militia). Awarded the Royal Humane Society's Silver Medal for the following act: "On the 31st August, 1887, about 11.15 a.m., a lady (Mrs. Crowther) was bathing with her five daughters and two little boys in a secluded spot, near Dunderdy, Cornwall. Half a gale was blowing, with a heavy sea. Three of the daughters had remained longer in the water than the others; when about to return to the beach, they found themselves unable to do so, and were carried out by the heavy sea. The mother at once swam to their assistance, but was also carried out. Captain Williams, on arriving at the place, found several persons attempting to reach the ladies. He at once ran along the rocks, and, throwing off some of his clothes, swam to a sunken reef some distance out. Another man followed, but, after facing the sea for a short time, became exhausted, and commenced to return to the beach. Captain Williams, after supporting himself on the sunken reef for a few seconds, proceeded to the outer sea, where the elder lady appeared to be floating in a lifeless condition. He succeeded in reaching her, and swam about 100 yards towards the shore, when Mr. Tiltman (who at first followed) again came to his assistance, and by their united efforts the lady was eventually saved. The rescued lady was about 300 yards from the shore when Captain Williams reached her. The three young ladies were unfortunately drowned." Captain Williams was also awarded the "Quiver" Silver Medal for the above act.

CHELTENHAM COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS, EXHIBITIONS, AND PRIZES.

CLASSICAL AND MATHEMATICAL SCHOLARS.

Every year in the Midsummer Term there will be an election to, at least, Ten Scholarships, varying in value from £80 or £85 to £20. Half of these will be given for proficiency mainly in Classics; and half for proficiency mainly in Mathematics. In each case, however, papers in other subjects will be set.

Four, at least, of these Scholarships will be given to boys under 15, and four, at least, to boys under 14, on the 1st day of the month in which the Election is held. One or two Scholarships, tenable at first in the Junior School, for boys under 13, may occasionally be offered.

1878—79. Simon Matthews Edwin Kempson, Esq., M.A.	1889—90. The Rev. William Walter Merry, D.D.

At a large meeting of Old Cheltonians, held in London on the 30th June, 1868, the Cheltonian Society was founded, and is composed exclusively of past members of Cheltenham College.

The objects for which this Society was founded may be briefly stated to be :—To aid and encourage the interests of Cheltenham College, both scholastic and athletic, and to form a bond of union between past and present Cheltonians. It tends to preserve a good feeling and a connection between the past and present members of Cheltenham College, and endeavours materially to further the interests of the School.

The funds of the Society are spent in giving prizes for school work, and in contributing to defray the expenses and promote the prosperity of legitimate games for the boys, according to the discretion of the Committee. Every Old Cheltonian, upon paying a donation or entrance fee of the minimum sum of one guinea, becomes a member of the Society, without being liable at any future time to any further expense or contribution.

The officers of the Society consist of a President, two London Secretaries, a Local Secretary at Cheltenham, and a Treasurer, besides a Committee of forty members, all of whom are elected annually.

An Annual Scholarship of £25, tenable for three years, is given by the Society, open to the sons of Old Cheltonians only, besides subscriptions to the various athletic interests of the College.

The General Meeting of the Society is held every year, in London, during the last fortnight in June, excepting every third year, when it is held at Cheltenham, and after which the members dine together.

All Old Cheltonians are earnestly requested to join the Society, as the more members there are the greater benefit does the College derive. Up to the present upwards of 1,200 Old Cheltonians have joined.

Every information will be gladly afforded by the Hon. Secretaries :—A. Gwynne James, Esq., 2 Temple Gardens, The Temple, London, E.C.; D. C. Lee, Esq., 46 Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C.; or of the Hon. Local Secretary, G. G. Pruen, Esq., Park House, Cheltenham.
